The ICA Committee on University / Campus Co-operatives in collaboration with the Malaysian National Co-operative Movement (ANGKASA) jointly organized the International School Co-operative Seminar from July 22-26, 2018 at Vouk Suites Hotel, Penang, Malaysia. The theme of the seminar was ‘Youth Empowerment Through Co-operatives for a Better World.’ The event was attended by 40 delegates from ICA member organizations, invited guests and resource speakers; and 70 high school students and teachers.

Dr. Mohd Azlan Yahya, Chair of the Committee and Vice President of ANGKASA in the ice-breaking session said that if youth are provided with skills and opportunities to reach their potential, they can become the driving force in achieving the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). ANGKASA’s approach is founded on supporting youth empowerment in co-operatives and partnering with all stakeholders who support progressive development of co-operatives in schools. The participants were then invited to introduce themselves and highlight their inspiration in joining this Seminar.

Datuk Mohamad Ali Hasan, Vice President of ANGKASA officiated the program at the Official Dinner in conjunction with the Seminar. In his speech he mentioned that the basic idea of forming school co-operatives is to educate students on co-operatives, instill in them entrepreneurial skills, and to empower them by introducing a democratic approach. A recorded message from Mr. Balasubramanian Iyer, Regional Director, ICA-AP was screened to the participants. Mr. Iyer highlighted the importance of campus co-operatives especially in bringing youth together and developing their skills as campuses are the best training ground for leaders of the future.

Three resource speakers representing key stakeholders from the Malaysian school co-operative movement shared their expertise and their role in empowering school students through co-operative entrepreneurial activities. Ms. Zuraidah Yahaya from the Malaysian Co-operative Societies Commission (MCSC) presented a paper on the History of Malaysian Co-operative Movement. She explained the role of MCSC in assisting schools in establish and form school co-operatives and providing grants to start-up business. Dato' Kamarudin Ismail, Vice President of ANGKASA / ICA Board Member presented the Overview of School Co-operative in Malaysia and the role of ANGKASA as an apex co-operative in providing guidance and training as well as facilitating development of schools. The third paper on Favourable Policies in Promoting Co-operatives in Schools was presented by Mr. Wan Mohd Ariffin Wan Hussin, the Assistant Director of Ministry of Education, Malaysia. He touched on how the Government of Malaysia through the Ministry of Education makes it compulsory to establish co-operative in schools and encourages students' involvement in co-operatives by providing merits to students, which is a plus point for their application to university level.

On the second and third day, the delegates got the opportunity to visit three different school co-operatives around Penang. The first was to St. Georges' Girls' School, a normal day-school with a very enthusiastic co-operative team and numerous entrepreneurial activities. The students explained about their structure, support received by the Principal and teachers and took the delegates to tour the school including their co-operative homestay in the school compound. The second visit was to the MRSM Kepala Batas, a junior college boarding school. Here the students benefit from co-operative businesses as banking agents, laundry service providers, as well as a child care centres for the teachers. The co-operative employs 17 staff to cater to the members; it includes cooks, co-op cafeteria staff, and drivers of the co-op transportation service. The third visit was to the Al-Mashoor Islamic Girls School, a school co-operative that is active in tourism activities. The students shared their experience in developing and offering affordable tour packages around Penang. Here, the delegates also got a taste of Malaysian traditional games and activities.

The delegates were inspired by the element of co-operative principles and values that are nurtured in the school students. A handful of delegates were very interested in collaborating, especially in adopting the Malaysian model of school co-operatives in their respective countries. It is ANGKASA's aspiration to have school co-operatives established in other countries and is looking forward to assist co-operatives in the Asia Pacific region in the development of co-operatives in schools either using the Malaysian model or in establishing a better model that suits the local conditions.

ASEAN Cooperative Commodities forward to the Globe

The Cooperative League of Thailand (CLT) celebrated its Golden Jubilee and 2018 International Day of Cooperatives (Sustainable Consumption and Production) Celebration by organizing a seminar and an exhibition of products developed by co-operatives.

The Seminar on, "ASEAN Cooperative Commodities forward to the Globe," included keynote address and panel discussion. The keynote address was delivered by Dato' Abdul Fattah Abdullah, President of ASEAN Cooperative Organization (ACO) and President of ANGKASA, Malaysia. The panel discussion featured Mongkalat Pukanat, Chairman of CLT; Prayoon Inskul Deputy Director General of Cooperative Promotion Department (CPD); and Balasubramanian Iyer, Regional Director, International Cooperative Alliance Asia and Pacific; and was moderated by Dr. Asanee Rattanamalai, Master of Rassamee International School.

The interest in developing trade among co-operatives in the Asia-Pacific region goes back to the 1960s and Thailand has figured prominently in this regard. In 1974, based on the recommendations of Select Committee (1972) on Agriculture and Trade of ICA-AP, the International Co-operative Trading Organization (ICTO) was established in Singapore with investments from Australia, Indonesia, Iran, Malaysia, Philippines, Singapore, Sri Lanka and Thailand. Unfortunately, this initiative wound up in 1976 due to lack of member support. In the late 70s/ early 80s under an agreement between the JA-Zenchu and CLT an international trading plaza was set up in Bangkok to serve as a trading window for cooperatives. However, over time, as in the past, interest waned due to lack of member support.

The ASEAN Vision 2025 calls for a resilient, inclusive, people-oriented and people-centered community that engenders equitable development and inclusive growth. The ASEAN Economic Blueprint highlights the need to promote ASEAN agricultural cooperatives as a means to empower and enhance market of agricultural products, to build a network mechanism linking agricultural cooperatives, and to fulfill the purpose of agricultural cooperatives for the benefit of farmers in the region. This provides an opportunity for co-operative to engage and enhance co-operative to co-operative trade; strengthen engagement between ASEAN Secretariat and ACO; build value chains and the cooperative ecosystem; and promote the cooperative identity.

Speaking on the occasion, Dato Fatah Abdullah, Chairman Angkasa and ICA-AP Board member said that, "Co-operatives are agents of change, have commitment of members, and growing producer and consumer base. We need joint efforts to build the cooperative economy. Mr. Mongkalat Pukanat, Chairman of CLT, said that the Thai-ASEAN center and information hub has been created to act as a business hub to help enhance business, trade, industry, and service as well as facilitate and coordinate in this area.

The exhibition provided an opportunity for co-operatives from Thailand and other ASEAN countries to display their products and network among themselves. Dato Fattah Abdullah and Mr. Pukanat jointly inaugurated the Thai-ASEAN co-operative products center in the CLT campus.

Mr. Thakur encouraged individuals and organisations from within the Asia Pacific co-operative movement to display values of Solidarity and Self-Help which are core values of the co-operative movement at large. He also requested them to inspire more young people in their network and outside to join the Campaign, and help him in his Mission to establish a sustainable environment and society. Volunteers joined the campaign by plating saplings and taking photographs of the event and sharing it widely on social media.

The Sustainable Way Forward: Lessons for New Zealand

Mr. Craig Presland, CEO, Cooperative Business New Zealand (CBNZ), has penned a compelling piece on the journey traversed by New Zealand towards contributing to sustainable consumption and production.

He begins the article in Vanuatu where he attended the ICA-AP Forum on Development of Co-operatives in the Pacific Islands. He drew inspiration from an installation made by a local tribesman exhorting people to pay heed to the damage climate change is wrecking on island nations such as his. The article moves on to facts about how widespread climate change induced destruction is, and how every country, no matter big or small has a role to play. He highlights the positive steps taken by New Zealand in slowing the destruction through the 'closing of new oil and gas explorations off the Taranaki coast recently, along with the new government's pledge to plant more than one billion trees over the next 10 years.'

Mr. Presland gives concrete recommendations for individuals and businesses on how they can do their bit for the cause of sustainable consumption and production. With respect to suggestions for co-operatives, he highlights how major co-operative players in his country, are already on the right path with respect to sustainability. They have committed to contributing to a waste management program, recycling cloth bags, cutting out plastic completely, and carrying out other socially conscious programs for the benefit of their communities.

ICA-EU PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM ON CO-OPERATIVES IN DEVELOPMENT: PEOPLE CENTRED BUSINESSES IN ACTION

In March 2016, the ICA and the European Union signed a Framework Partnership Agreement (Europe Aid/150-053/C/ACT/Multi) to implement a multi-year and multi-country development programme aimed at benefitting and advancing co-operatives worldwide. The Partnership is officially titled "Co-operatives in Development: People Centred Businesses in Action", translated into the social media hashtag #Coops4Dev (co-operatives for development). The Partnership has 8 Result Areas and 33 Activity Streams for delivery by 5 units, one housed in each regional office and one at the coordination level in Brussels. The AP unit has identified three strategic development priorities namely, participation of Co-operatives in Achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), Youth Inclusion in Co-operatives, and Exploring Work and Ownership Structures in Co-operatives. The ICA-AP implements the programme in collaboration with Alliance members and in partnerships with other stakeholders such as governments, international development agencies, private sector and NGOs in the region. Forum on Development of Co-operatives in the Pacific: A Summary Report

L to R: Mr. Ridley Joseph (Registrar of Co-operatives, Vanuatu), Mr. Balu Iyer (RD, ICA-AP), H.E. Mr. Bob Loughman (Deputy PM, Vanuatu), Mrs. Savitri Singh (Program Director) and Mr. Santosh Kumar (Program Manager)

Introduction

The ICA Asia and Pacific in collaboration with the Office of Registrar and Business Development Services, Vanuatu organized the Pacific Forum (ICA-AP Forum on Development of Co-operatives in the Pacific Islands) on 5-6 July 2018, with the participation of delegates from co-operatives, government and CSO groups from Fiji, Kiribati, Papua New Guinea, Solomon Islands, Australia and New Zealand, Indonesia and Nepal. The Pacific Forum co-funded by the ICA-EU Partnership on Co-operatives in Development, comes as the first sub-regional activity in the Pacific after the ICA-AP conference on co-operative development in Fiji in 2008. The activity aimed at mainstreaming representation from Pacific co-operatives in ICA's development process proved very useful in understanding the realities of doing co-operative business as well as challenges faced by institutions like federations and offices of registrar of co-operatives, in the Pacific Islands.

The Forum also proved helpful in bringing co-operative apex organizations in Australia (BCCM) and New Zealand (CBNZ), and sectoral federations in Nepal (NACCFL) and Indonesia (KOPWANI) closer to the stakeholders representing co-operative-development in the Pacific. Additionally, the participation of strategic international development actors like Vanuatu Association of NGOs (VANGO) Pacific Islands Association of NGOs (PIANGO), ILO Coop Unit, ILO Country Office for the Pacific and the Melanesian Spearhead Group (MSG) added the much needed dimension of regional integration for development of co-operatives in the Pacific Islands.

Read the detailed Report about the Proceedings and Recommendations of the Forum here.

The Forum

The Pacific Forum that opened with messages in support of co-operative development in the region by H.E. Bob Loughman, Deputy Prime Minister, Republic of Vanuatu, Mr. Balasubramanian Iyer, ICA Regional Director (Asia Pacific), Mr. Donglin Li, ILO Director for Pacific Island Countries, H.E. Wera Mori, Minister of Trade, Commerce and Industry (PNG), Mr. Peter Eafeare, Deputy Director General, MSG and Mr. Joseph Ridley, Registrar of Co-operatives, Vanuatu, was able to achieve its listed objectives of understanding the challenges, and exploring opportunities for developing co-operatives & institutions in Pacific Island countries. The ICA-AP is currently working to create a platform to work on promotion and development of co-operative enterprise model in the Pacific. A short snapshot of status, realities and challenges presented by key resource persons from Pacific Island countries is placed below:

- a.) Mrs. Kammani Betiota, Registrar of Co-operatives, Government of Kiribati informed the Forum that there had been a 94% increase in the number of co-operatives in the last 4 decades and that there were 11 business sectors covered by co-operatives in the country with copra-farming and fisheries dominating the space. She stated that there was an increase in government's subsidy to co-operatives along with the government's efforts to release contemporary training manuals for members of co-operatives. She also informed that there was an ongoing review of the national ordinance and regulations on co-operatives in Kiribati. Mrs. Betiota highlighted legal compliance, outdated legal framework, political interference and lack of access to international development & capacity building funds as the main challenges faced by co-operatives in Kiribati. Her recommendations for the way-forward included membership to the ICA, exercises to add value to strong business sectors (copra and fishing) and an international review of co-operative laws in Kiribati.
- b.) Mr. Stephen Sallun, Registrar of Co-operatives from Papua New Guinea joined H.E. Mr. Wera Mori, Minister of Trade, Commerce and Industry (PNG) in representing the country, and stated that there were 6000 registered co-operatives and that almost 60% of co-operatives operated in sectors like coffee cultivation, copra farming and producing vanilla palm oil. He further mentioned that the high quality coffee from co-operatives in PNG were exporting to premium markets. He identified digital payments to members, increasing access to finance and increasing partnerships as areas of opportunity of PNG co-operatives. Mr. Sallun informed the Forum that lack of accurate data on co-operatives, limited research, lack of compliance with financial regulators and an inadequate policy framework for co-operatives, as the main challenges. His recommendations to the Forum included data collection initiatives, accessing development funds to strengthen PNG co-operatives and a comprehensive review of co-operative legislation while also drafting a national policy on co-operative development.
- c.) Mr. Tony Sewen, Chairperson ORCBDS, Vanuatu with support from Mr. Ridley Joseph, Registrar of Co-operatives informed the house that there were 356 active co-operatives in the country with a membership of 14438 individuals. He mentioned that co-operative average growth was 1.3% in this decade, and that almost 50% of co-operatives operated in the retail sector. He further informed that co-operatives in Vanuatu had recently established a Vanuatu Co-operative Business Network as an apex body to represent – unite – serve co-operatives and to support the People's Plan (National Strategic Development Plan) by leveraging the co-operative advantage in sectors like education, sustainable agriculture, food security while addressing issues of inclusion, unemployment and gender equality. Mr. Sewen also highlighted that the legal framework for co-operatives in the country was outdated and that high cost of transportation, lack of proper agri-support infrastructure and training on a range of capacities of members, were the main challenges in the road to development of co-operatives in Vanuatu. He did however bring out C2C trade, increasing co-operative membership, developing visibility strategies and an active membership with ICA as the immediate ways forward.
- d.) Mr. Benjamin Inukoru, Registrar of Co-operatives for the Solomon Islands informed the Forum that co-operatives in the country were established by virtue of an ordinance in 1957 with the proliferation of consumer co-operatives in the form of rural trade stores. He added that co-operatives in the country declined in the 1980s with more than half the number going into liquidation and the continued absence of co-operative apex associations. He was quick to add that there had been a resurgence in the 1990s albeit a slow one in the development of co-operatives in the country. The credit co-operative sector since then had emerged as one of the stronger areas of business. He further informed that sectors covered by co-operatives like fisheries, land purchase and use, saw-mills had gone inactive and that strong support was needed to develop co-operatives in agriculture and allied businesses. He also brought out an interesting fact that the legislation on co-operatives in the Solomon Islands was based on the colonial 1904 Act on co-operatives in India, and that since 1987 ILO had continued to assist the country in revising their co-operative law. While Mr. Inukoru also identified co-operative legislation as one of the main challenges, he also stated capacity building, especially of youth and women members had become vital. Since their establishment in 1957, only 404 co-operatives had been registered out of which 68% or 274 were not operational, 115 remained dormant and only 4% or 15 were actively functioning.

Participation of ICA Members & International Agencies

ICA members CNBZ, represented by Mr. Craig Presland; BCCM, represented by Ms. Alexandra Hordern; NACCFL, represented by Mr. Khem Bahadur Pathak, Mr. Rudra Bhattarai and Ms. Meena Pokhrel; and KOPWANI of the Dewan Koperasi Indonesia (DEKOPIN), represented by Ms. Siti Nurul Aini stepped up to share insights from their respective movements and brought out the their challenges while offering support and guidance to co-operatives in the Pacific. Ms. Hordern facilitated the interactive group-working session while Mr. Presland, Ms. Aini and Ms. Pokhrel joined to help engage group members in highlighting main areas of collaboration and developing synergies in their plans.

The presentations from representatives of co-operatives from the Pacific Island countries and the ICA membership was supported by insightful statements and informative presentations by Mr. Donglin Li of the ILO who brought out the relevance of ILO recommendation 193 on promoting co-operatives; Ms. Davila Andrea of the ILO Coop Unit who introduced important contemporary ILO tools for co-operatives including Think.Coop, Start.Coop, MYCOOP, MY-Fin-Coop etc; Mrs. Savitri Singh of the ICA-AP who highlighted the role of ICA in development of cooperatives and her extensive work in promoting women led co-operatives; and statements in support of co-operatives and regional integration of actors responsible for co-operative development from Mr. Peter Eafere & David Hopa of the MSG; and Ms. Ekta Singh of PIANGO and Ms. Anne Pakoa from the Vanuatu Human Rights Coalition and Board Member VANGO.

Main Findings & Conclusion

Mr. Balasubramanian Iyer, ICA-AP Regional Director provided a comprehensive round-up and action plan to the participants wherein he highlighted Education, Ineffective legal & policy environment, lack of co-operative statistics, lack of access to finance as the main & common challenges for co-operatives in the Pacific. He further brought out that the two important and ongoing activities of Mapping co-operative actors and the Legal Framework Analysis of the ICA-EU Partnership would certainly benefit the stakeholders. He went on to invite the members of the audience to the Second Asia Pacific Co-operative Youth Summit (18-21 August 2018) in Cebu, the Philippines and the 13th ICA-AP Regional Assembly (26-30 November 2018) in Tehran, Iran, in order to help co-operatives in the Pacific build their network and learn about other movements outside the Pacific. He further stated that the upcoming APEC meeting in PNG and the ADB meeting Fiji, as well as the upcoming Voluntary National Reviews of the SDGs for Fiji and Vanuatu in 2019 at the High Level Political Forum of the UN were important events to make the Pacific co-operatives' voices heard. He concluded by presented a three-pronged plan to the Forum viz. Short Term: Increasing Membership and inclusion of Pacific co-operatives in ICA-AP committees; Undertake mapping and LFA exercises and arrange exchange visits. Medium Term: Developing Partnerships with MSG, PIANGO and building a favorable eco-system for co-operatives especially in sectors like finance and insurance while promoting cross sectoral synergies, and in Long term: Support the creation of an enabling environment, strengthen co-operative federations and establish a regional network for co-operatives.

International Day of Co-operatives 2018

The Forum officially closed with the observance of the 2018 International Day of Co-operatives on 7 July, themed on Responsible Consumption and Production with the participation of H.E. Mr. Charlot Salwai Tabimasmal, Prime Minister of the Republic of Vanuatu along with international participants.
