FOREWORD

The publication of this Directory is an immediate result of the planning and work undertaken by ICA's WORKING PARTY ON CO-OPERATIVE PRESS, an international group of co-operative journalists, editors and publishers, meeting annually for joint professional collaboration and discussion in the field of co-operative journalism.

The Directory has been compiled from the most recent information available, but is not necessarily a complete list of all co-operative papers issued in each of the countries mentioned. Every care has, however, been taken to include data supplied by all the respondents to our questionnaire. We would be glad to have further information from the users of the Directory for the preparation of the next issue of what we hope is a useful tool for Co-operative journalists, editors and publishers, as well as for all those connected with the Co-operative Movement and looking for advertising possibilities and contacts.

THE I. C. A. WORKING PARTY ON CO-OPERATIVE PRESS

The ICA Working Party on Co-operative Press was founded in 1970 to help improve the professional competence, effectiveness and understanding of the people charged with the running of the press, publications and co-operative information media in the organisations affiliated to the International Co-operative Alliance.

The objects of the Working Party include:-

- . Organising studies and research into aspects of Co-operative information work and communications;
- . Giving advice and suggestions to the ICA itself on the development of the Alliance's press work;
- . Assisting those responsible for Co-operative Press and publications in developing countries;
- . Encouraging the provision of training opportunities for Co-operative journalists everywhere; and
- . Promoting more frequent and regular contact between those engaged in Co-operative press and information work and publishing.

Membership of the Working Party is open to all affiliated organisations of the ICA, which may be represented by Chief Editors, Publishers, Information Officers, or their deputies working in a professional capacity on Co-operative newspapers, magazines or information media within the Co-operative Movement. The Working Party meets every year by invitation of one of its member organisation participants.

For further information about Working Party activities, please write to the Secretary,
