Dear Cooperator,

Herewith you will find the First Half-Yearly (1969) Supplement of the Annotated Bibliography of Literature Produced by the Cooperative Movements in the South-East Asian Region. This Supplement covers the cooperative literature published in the Region since January 1969.

As you might recall, the first issue of the Bibliography was produced in 1963 which covered the cooperative literature published since 1947 in the Region. The subsequent half-yearly supplements were issued at regular intervals.

The Bibliography underwent a number of changes and improvements during the last six years of its appearance. We have improved the contents and get-up of the publication. We are happy to note that the response from our subscribers and patrons had been quite encouraging.

Most of the material for the Bibliography is collected with the generous help of the Cooperative Unions, and Cooperative Departments in the Region, to whom we are grateful. We are doing our best to make this publication to suit your requirements.

The purpose of writing this brief letter to you is to invite your suggestions and comments for further improvement of the Bibliography. We would be grateful to have a line from you if you have any suggestions and comments to offer which will help us to improve further this regular publication of the ICA Regional Office and Education Centre for South-East Asia.

Thanking you,

Yours faithfully,

B.D. Pandey
B.D. Pandey,

pp 316, Rs. 5.00.

/for With the adoption of social control over banks in India, the banking industry in India has entered a new phase requiring a reorientation of bank management, credit policies and operations. An important aspect of the new policy is to enlarge the flow of commercial banks credit into agriculture. The entry of commercial banks into this relatively new field raises a number of problems/which practical solutions have to be found. It was in recognition of this need that the RBI organised a three day seminar on the Financing of Agriculture by Commercial Banks from Dec. 6 to 8, 1968. This volume contains some of the papers presented as well as a summary of the report

II. A summary of the Committee's recommendations.

----- Report of the All-India Rural Credit Review Committee, Reserve Bank of India, Agricultural Credit Department, Bombay, 1969, pp. 1073, price Rs. 18.50.

Fifteen years after the publication of the Report of the All-India Rural Credit Survey Committee, the Rural Credit Review Committee appointed by the Governor of the Reserve Bank of India in July 1966, under the Chairmanship of Mr. B. Venkatappiah, Member, Planning Commission, has now reviewed in this Report the progress achieved since 1951-52 and made recommendations for future policy in regard to rural credit in the context of the Fourth Plan. In analysing facts and formulating its wide-ranging recommendations in this comprehensive Report, the Committee has drawn on the results of various field studies organised for it by the Economic Department of the Reserve Bank and other agencies and taken into account the views of State Governments and cooperative and commercial banks elicited through questionnaires and discussions. The Committee has brought out the main features of the performance of the various institutional credit agencies and made several suggestions for enabling them to play, in this sphere, a larger and more purposeful role than in the past.

One of the main recommendations of the Committee is that an Agricultural Credit Board should be established in the Reserve Bank to deal with all aspects of rural and cooperative credit. Another pertains to the setting up of a Small Farmers Development Agency in each of a number of selected districts throughout the country for assisting small but potentially viable farmers in securing those supplies and services which can enable them to pass from subsistence to commercial farming. Preparatory work in this direction has already been undertaken in certain States. By way of implementation of another recommendation, a Rural Electrification Corporation has already been set up with a view to accelerating the energization of pump-sets for irrigation. The Committee has also recommended a dynamic role for the Agricultural Refinance Corporation and the adoption of various measures for ensuring the timely and adequate flow of credit for agriculture through cooperatives and commercial banks.

The Report includes a detailed account of the progress of cooperative agricultural credit and covers, apart from credit needs for agricultural production and investment, also those for animal husbandry, the marketing of agricultural produce and the distribution of fertilizers and other agricultural requisites. The Report of the Committee was released on 30th July, 1969.

INDIA (RESERVE BANK OF) :

Manual on Internal Checks and Branch Control for Cooperative Banks, Reserve Bank of India, Agricultural Credit Department, Bombay, 1969, pp. 119.

A sound system of internal checks and control are pre-requisites for any business organisation to attain success in its field. The importance of sound system of internal checks and control is more crucial for banking institutions as they are repositories of the saving of the public and have necessarily to inspire confidence in the public mind for attracting more deposits. Banking institutions are expanding institutions with the expansion of the branches the internal checks and control are more vital. In past several minor and major irregularities were found in the working of cooperative banks. After having several rounds of inspection of cooperative banks by Reserve Bank of India, the RBI has brought to the forefront the urgent need on the part of the cooperative banks to adopt a system of internal checks and controls on the lines of well-managed commercial banks. The book deals with practical sides of maintenance of bank accounts register etc. The book will be a very useful manual for cooperative banks to manage their day-to-day accounts and their proper control.

SCHILLER, Otto M. :
 Cooperation and Integration in Agricultural Production : Concepts and Practical Application - An International Synopsis,
 Asia Publishing House, Bombay, 1969, pp. 230, price Rs. 25.00.

The book emphasises on the need for having a coordination between the cooperatives and the various factors responsible for agricultural production. The author explains various ways of farming, such as cooperative farming, joint farming, collective farming etc. He explains in the preface of the book: "when talking of Cooperation and integration in the field of agricultural production, it is obvious that we are thinking first of all the fully integrated cooperatives, which will be referred to here as the production cooperative".

Keeping in view the agricultural production cooperatives, the book has been divided into two parts, the first part deals with conception of agricultural production cooperatives, practical methods of production, cooperatives promotion of production cooperatives, farm guidance and management. The second part deals with the practical examples of production cooperatives from some countries, namely, Kibbutz in Israel, cooperative farming in India, collective Ejidos in Mexico, etc. Last chapter deals with the working of collective farming in communist countries, such as China, U.S.S.R., Poland and Yugoslavia

The Swedish Cooperative Centre, Stockholm, under its scholarship programme offers a few fellowships to train cooperators from countries of South-East Asia. The scheme was started in 1962-63. The aim of the scheme was to train Asian cooperative officials in cooperative development, its management and to acquaint them with the efficient and successful working of Cooperative Movement in Sweden.
 With the completion of several fellowship courses, it was decided to have follow-up seminars to find out whether training and knowledge received by Asian participants in Sweden has any practical applicability in Asian conditions.

The first follow-up seminar was organised in New Delhi, India, during February 1969. This seminar-continuation was held under the joint auspices of the Regional Office and Education Centre for South-East Asia of the International Cooperative Alliance, New Delhi, and the Swedish Cooperative Centre, Stockholm, with the active collaboration of the Cooperative League of Thailand. The objective of this part of the seminar was to discuss the applicability and adaptation of the knowledge acquired by the participants in Sweden to the Cooperative Movements in the Region. In addition, the Seminar programme also included lectures by prominent cooperators from Thailand, and study visits to cooperatives in Thailand.
